Rich SINES

"Just to give you an idea of how low my self-esteem was, my nickname growing up was 'weasel boy' and I even used it as my online name until recently when, at the age of 27, I felt like I finally became a man. The night after I got my new smile, and for the first time in my life, a girl 'hit on me' while I was in Home Depot. Needless to say, I felt like a new guy with a new lease on life. From that point on, everything in my life opened up. I got a great job as manager of the framing department at one of the best known art supply stores in the region... and I got a lot of dates! I never knew life could be so sweet. Everyone needs someone to believe in them and care about them like Dr. Samaha and her awesome team. They always treated me with loads of respect, even when I didn't respect myself."
